Membership Information

The International Society for Digestive Surgery ISDS has been founded in 1969 as the Collegium Internationale Digestivae Chirurgiae (CICD). The founding aims of the new college were clearly defined: to present current information to the medical world concerning advances in gastrointestinal surgery, to permit the free exchange of new knowledge, to allow comparison of experiences, to stimulate clinical studies and to seek improved diagnostic and therapeutic measures. It was agreed that there would be no political, racial, ideological or religious discrimination.

Included in the ISDS Membership is the subscription to World Journal of Surgery WJS (12 issues per year) as well as online access to 10 additional surgical Springer journals.

Membership in the society shall be limited to surgeons or professionals in related fields of good professional standing, who have a major interest and an active practice in digestive surgery. Members of ISDS must also become members of the International Society of Surgery ISS/SIC of which ISDS is an Integrated Society.

The standardized (on-line or printed) application form for active membership must be submitted to the Membership Committee of ISDS. The application form must be accompanied by a current curriculum vitae and include a list of publications, as well as e-mail addresses of two sponsors, who must be members of ISDS. Copies will be sent to the two sponsors to provide their confirmation by e-mail. The Membership Committee shall review the application and make a recommendation for membership. The committee has the right to accept or reject application for membership in the society. Once the application has been approved, the ISDS office shall process all relevant documentation and inform the new member and the ISS/SIC office accordingly.
